Coleman Football Team Enter Crahan Cup Finals

Will Play Blairmore on Neutral Ground — Joyce Scores "Hat Trick" By Brilliant Play.

Coleman proved too strong for Coal Creek on Saturday in the Crahan Cup semi-final, with a 4-1 score. Coleman were the aggressors, playing a wide passing game that had Coal Creek on the defensive most of the time. Coleman will meet Blairmore in the final, the latter having defeated Fernie 2-1 on Sunday.

Play opened with the exchanges fairly even and mostly in mid-field. Coleman quickly became dangerous, bombarding Coal Creek goal. Brown being ruled offside when about to score. Atkinson, clever Coal Creek centre, almost opened the scoring, when a Coleman half back mis-kicked, allowing Atkinson to get within shooting range of Ford, Coleman goalie, who cleared.

Ill luck was experienced by Coleman when Watson took a foul kick, placing the ball in the mouth of Coal Creek goal, where Joyce headed it, the ball hitting the inside of the upright, being cleared by a defender. Coleman continued the pressure, and Lou Moore shot a beauty to beat Sopko.

Coleman continued to show superiority over their opponents and Joyce put them further ahead in the second half by taking a pass from Ball to send the ball like a bullet into the net. Joyce tucked the game safely away when he took advantage of a back's hesitation to again beat Sopko, who had no chance. Coal Creek fought back courageously (Continued on Back Page)

The World In Danger

As week succeeds week the possibilities of war between Italy and Ethiopia grow nearer to certitude and the situation becomes fraught with alarming menace, not merely to the two countries involved but to other countries and possibly the whole civilized world.

With the Italian representatives rejecting, one after another, proposals which are being made almost daily by committees of the League of Nations and interested powers in the hope of averting an outbreak of hostilities, and Emperor Haile Selassie refusing to accept any compromise which would result in the surrender of the independence of his kingdom, the situation becomes more and more gloomy, and the gloom deepens with the active preparations which are being prosecuted by Mussolini and the belligerence with which he is whipping his countrymen into a warlike attitude.

Statements of the leading nations of the world and international authorities appear to be in complete accord with the general consensus of world opinion that such a conflict would not be confined to Italy and Ethiopia, but that other nations would be dragged into the fray and that it is even likely to lead to a general conflagration which would result in misery and suffering to millions and loss of life and property on an even greater scale than the Great War of 1914-18.

Indeed, there are authorities who see in the present situation a potential destruction of civilization itself. This view is supported by the Committee on International Law of the Canadian Bar Association, which in a report to the Canadian Bar Association convention in Winnipeg recently spoke of "the consequences to the world and Canada of an actual resort to arms" as probably "catastrophic in the sense that it may include the destruction or profound modification of many of the institutions upon which civilization is based."

Again in the same report, the committee dealt with the conduct of Italy as indicating that government's unwillingness to accept decisions of the Council of the League of Nations, of which she is a member, in the following words:

"If that attitude persists the world may be faced with a complete breakdown of the system of public international order which was supposed to have been permanently established by the sacrifices of the years 1914 to 1918. The question is whether or not the peoples of the world will permit this by failure to agree on united action or whether, by united action, they will, as they undoubtedly can, insist upon the observance of the platonic law upon which the continuance of our present civilization may depend."

The statement that the peoples of the world can avoid this catastrophe by united action refers to the powers which the member countries of the League vested in themselves when they approved Article 16 of the covenant, to which all members have subscribed, agreeing to impose financial and economic sanctions as a punitive measure against any member who breaks the covenants and commits an act of aggression against any other country.

In view of the menace of the situation the importance of these powers become paramount. They are contained in the first and third paragraphs of Article 16 and read as follows:

"1. Should any Member of the League resort to war in disregard of its covenants under Articles 12, 13 and 15, it shall, ipso facto, be deemed to have committed an act of aggression against all other members of the League, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade relations, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and nationals of the covenant-breaking State, and the prevention of all financial, commercial or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking State and the nationals of any other State, whether a Member of the League or not."

"2. The Members of the League agree, further, that they will mutually support one another in the financial and economic measures which are taken under this Article, in order to minimize the loss and inconvenience resulting from the severance of trade relations, and that they will mutually support one another in resisting any special measures aimed at one of their number by the covenant-breaking State, and that they will take the necessary steps to afford passage through territory to the forces of any Members of the League which are co-operating to protect the covenants of the League."

It is not perhaps generally known that the onus of deciding whether an act of aggression or incident is to be construed as "an act of war" within the meaning of the covenants is left with each individual member to decide. A clause was drafted some years ago vesting the decision with the Council but this has never been ratified by the League.

However, once a member has decided that some act or incident is "an act of war" it has no alternative, under the covenants, but to proceed with the measures outlined in Article 16. Otherwise, that country has itself violated the covenants.

With the onus of interpretation of an "act of war" left upon each individual member, the importance of the general public being fully posted on events as they transpire, can readily be understood, as in the final analysis, it is the people of each country involved who are in the position by their influence, to decide what part their country shall play in the efforts to avert a major catastrophe.

Huge Boulder Slide

500 Tons Of Rock Breaks Loose At Niagara Falls

With a thundering roar, 500 tons of rock broke loose from the cliff on the American side below the lower bridge at Niagara Falls, at a point where 200 tons fell last April.

Huge boulders and shale were piled high on the tracks of the International Railway, gorge line, and traffic was suspended. The railway tracks were lifted from the roadbed and pushed to the brink of the gorge. One pole carrying power lines was moved by the avalanche of rock and sand.

Officials stated it would take considerable time to clear the railway track of the present fall.

Northwest Territories Good Breeding Place States U.S. Biologist

Completing a two-month survey of nesting places of migratory waterfowl in the Northwest Territories and northern Alberta, L. J. Goldman and C. E. Gillham of the United States Biological Survey, Washington, D.C., arrived at Edmonton by aeroplane from Fort Resolution.

Mr. Gillham, who lives at Albuquerque, N.M., expressed himself as very favorably impressed with the extent and possibilities of the north country as a breeding area for waterfowl, but explained he was unable to release the result of his survey until he had reported to his government.

Nesting places of duck and geese on the various lakes as far north as Fort Resolution were surveyed.

Women Like Combines

We'll wager the farmers' wives are glad that threshing is over. At the Jess Denton farm in Alma, Kansas, there were 31 men for dinner and 27 for supper, while at another farm near, where one of the big combines was used, three men harvested 165 acres in a day. That is in one place where the machine lessens the work for the women.

A Great Astronomer

Dr. Anna Cannon Has Classified Over 400,000 Stars

That astronomy is not so exact a science that the average man would not be interested were information readily available, is the opinion of Dr. Anna J. Cannon, of Harvard, who was in Toronto as a delegate to the American Astronomical Society's convention.

For 50 years Dr. Cannon has been gazing through telescopes and the mystery of the heavens has as great a thrill for her as ever. Dr. Cannon is the most famous woman astronomer in the world, and she has shared with Madame Curie of France and others equally famous the honor of receiving the Elliel Richards' prize for outstanding work by women in research.

She was the last recipient of the prize, which was founded to encourage women to study science. But because it was felt women no longer needed encouragement to enter, it was discontinued. Dr. Cannon has continued it, however, for women in astronomy. It is called after her now and it goes to women astronomers.

The prize was given Dr. Cannon for classification of stars according to their spectra. She has classified over 400,000. Harvard is now a mecca for astronomers all over the world who seek astronomical observations of spectra.

An Intricate Problem

Joining Of Steel Plates On Liner Queen Mary Requires Study

Construction of the new Cunard White Star super liner Queen Mary has been complicated by reason of the fact that no two of her steel plates are exactly the same, according to reports from the shipyard at Clydebank. Most of the plates are curved, and many of them are more than 36 feet long, 6 feet wide and more than an inch thick. Few are really flat.

The joining of the plate so that each rivet hole pairs exactly with the corresponding hole is an intricate problem, and more than 10,000,000 such pairs of holes must be made. Each plate must overlap at least six others adjoining it, creating a problem of arrangement that has required the study of a large engineering staff.

A large half-model of the ship has been laid out on a loft floor at the shipyard, furnishing an accurate picture of the successive rows of plates and a laboratory for the study of the details of construction which are carried out on a larger scale on the ship itself.—New York Times.

Greatest Nervous Scientist

Has Done Much To Extend Study Of Nervous System

Both Tzarist and Bolshevik Governments have delighted to honor the great Russian scientist, Prof. Ivan Pavlov, says the News of the World. No one living has done more to extend the study of the nervous system of men and animals, particularly knowledge of the connection between brain and digestion. He was awarded the Nobel Prize for this work as long ago as 1904. Last year, when he was 85, the Soviet Government spent £10,000 on equipping a laboratory for him. It now pays the old man, who was the son of a poor village priest, £2,000 a year, and, according to H. G. Wells, he is the only man who dare answer Stalin back.

New Variety Of Dahlias

A Siamese-twin dahlia, which may be the forerunner of a new variety of this autumn flower, was displayed at Victoria recently. The freak bloom was grown by Mrs. W. G. Gordon of Sooke, B.C. It is two flowers joined together at the calyx. The dahlia is of the pompon variety, and the back-to-back flowers almost form a solid ball of pink petals. Plant experts termed it a queer aberration of nature.

Gas Test Well

Great Activity Shown In Hudson Bay Junction Territory

Amalgamated Oil Ltd. brought in the fourth gas test well on the Kakwa structure recently. The flow was encountered at 275 feet, the same level at which gas was found in other wells, says a report from Hudson Bay Junction.

The four holes have been drilled largely with a view to securing geological data on the structure, which is very large. A test for oil somewhere in the Plewle hills is now considered justified. It was stated unofficially that the Senator Oil and Gas Development Company, Ottawa, intended shipping a rig to Hudson Bay Junction and drilling for oil on the structure where the Trail Blazer Company put down a hole last year. This structure is near Hudson Bay Junction and quite distant from the Kakwa structure, 25 miles distant.

Okapi In London Zoo Looks Like Miniature Giraffe

Leo, the Okapi, one of the rarest animals in the world, has taken a prominent place in London Zoo Society.

Leo comes from Africa and is the talk of the town. An Okapi (O-kapi), with the accent on the second syllable, inclusive in equal proportions the characteristics of the giraffe, the deer and the zebra. He looks like a miniature giraffe.

One of the shyest of animals, the Okapi has been hunted almost to the point of extinction by the pigmies of the forest with their deadly blow-guns.

Hurts Coal Industry

Bitter Complaint Against Natural Gas Competition In Alberta

Use of natural gas in Edmonton last year deprived mines of a market for 350,000 tons of coal, Sir Montague Barlow, eminent British authority on collieries, was told as he opened his investigation of Alberta's coal industry. Bitter complaint against natural gas competition was voiced by Mayne Reid, counsel for 10 coal companies. Mr. Reid also informed Sir Montague that truck and bus competition to railways has reduced the market for steam coal.

Trans-Atlantic Flight Of Wisconsin Aviator Ends In Ireland

Ballinrobe, County Mayo, Irish Free State.—The trans-Atlantic solo flight of Felix Waukiss, 28-year-old Wisconsin aviator, ended Sunday in a smashup in a rough field, but the flyer himself was uninjured.

Fog-bound and buffeted by storms along the Irish coast, Waukiss, who had hoped to fly nonstop from New York to Kaunas, Lithuania, brought his white and orange plane down in a hazardous landing.

Downing across the uneven field, the machine struck a tree and was badly damaged. But Waukiss climbed out of the wreckage without a scratch.

"I had been flying blind for a long time," he asserted. "I had bad visibility by all over the Atlantic and when I reached the coast I ran into storms and fog."

"I tried at first to make Baldonnel airdrome near Dublin and then headed for the Ballinrobe airdrome but I couldn't find it."

"I was delighted to see land for I was feeling very tired and my stock of gasoline was getting a bit low."

The flight was timed primarily to commemorate the flight of Stephen Darius and Stanley Grenas, killed in a crash 375 miles short of their Kaunas goal two years ago. It was sponsored by the Chicago-Lithuanian newspaper Naujasienas and the American-Lithuanian Transatlantic Flight Association.

Lady Heath, the British aviatrix, flew to Ballinrobe to take Waukiss to Dublin but damaged her plane in landing gear. Another plane was sent from Dublin to pick them up.

British Children Arrive

Forty-one Juveniles To Be Sent To Vancouver Island

Quebec.—Forty-one British children, here to make homes for themselves under a scheme sponsored by the Prince of Wales, arrived on the liner Duchess of Athol. In the group are 27 boys and 14 girls, ranging in age from six to 13 years. The youthful immigrants disembarked here and are continuing directly to Vancouver Island where two hostels have been provided, on a 1,000-acre farm for them.

The new organization will be known as the Canadian Medical Association, Alberta division. Dr. D. S. MacNab, Calgary, became first president of the new association.

Naval Officer Sentenced

Proposal To Increase World Consumption Of Essential Foodstuffs

Geneva.—Australia submitted to the second committee of the League of Nations assembly a proposal to increase the world consumption of essential foodstuffs, and immediately received British support.

The gist of the proposal is that at present few occidental nations can show that less than 20 per cent. of their populations are suffering to some degree from the effects of malnutrition. By measures to stimulate their consumption of milk and dairy products, fruit and vegetables, and eggs, public health would be improved and a new outlet would be found for the large food-exporting countries, while at the same time local agriculture would not suffer.

Stanley Bruce, Australian delegate, argued standards of living far in advance of those now enjoyed are possible. Increased consumption of certain foodstuffs would mean a great improvement in national health and efficiency, while the incidence of such diseases as tuberculosis would be greatly reduced.

"In a poverty-stricken world increased consumption is the only

Atheism In Schools

Makes Charge That Communism Taught In Ontario Schools

Calgary.—The charge that atheism and Communism were being taught to children in Ontario schools was made here by R. A. Hiltz, of Toronto, general secretary of the general board of religious education. In his report to delegates at the annual meeting of the executive council of the general synod of the Church of England, in Canada.

In his report on religious education in public schools, Mr. Hiltz called attention to "a report made recently by a school inspector in Ontario in which he stated definitely that atheism and Communism were being taught to the children in at least one of the schools in his inspectorate."

"Sufficient evidence is available," Mr. Hiltz said the inspector reported, "to show that a Communist organization has set up a Young Pioneer Club in this school."

"Through this club the children are taught that there is no God and that the Bible is false. They are also taught that neither loyalty nor respect is due British institutions."

Refugees Are Destitute

Nearly Million In World Where Fate Is Tragic

Geneva.—There are still nearly 1,000,000 refugees in the world, not counting thousands in North and South America and certain European countries, concerning whom no definite statistics are available.

Their fate, the political committee of the League of Nations assembly was told by Chairman Rudolph Kunschitzler of Czechoslovakia, is tragic. Twenty thousand in the neighborhood of Harbin in Manchuria alone are said to be in a state of almost complete destitution.

Royal Wedding

Third Son Of King George To Be Married On Nov. 6

Balmoral, Scotland.—The wedding of the Duke of Gloucester, third son of the king, to Lady Alice Montagu Douglas-Scott, will take place in Westminster Abbey, Nov. 6, it was officially announced.

The ceremony will follow closely the used in the wedding of the Duke of Kent to Princess Marina of Greece last November. Details have been arranged by the king, the queen, the duke and his fiancée.

Big Road Building Program

Winnipeg.—Immediate start on a $2,750,000 road and bridge building program was authorized by the Manitoba government. An agreement with the Dominion government, paying part of the cost, provides men must be at work on the projects prior to Oct. 10, otherwise the work cannot be started.

sound way to utilize progress of science. Providing we are determined to increase consumption and work resolutely to that end, we can find the means whereby it can be achieved."

He proposed appointment of a committee of agricultural, economic and health experts to inquire into the idea and report to the next meeting of the league assembly.

Lord De La Warr, parliamentary secretary to the British ministry of agriculture, supported the proposal. The problem of poverty in the midst of plenty was a challenge to statesmanship, he said.

During the depression the world had witnessed the gradual piling up of certain agricultural commodities and the limitation of production. In some cases there was actual destruction of foodstuffs. Stocks rose to a level about double normal, heavily loaded to a whole year's import demand for the entire world.

"It certainly seems therefore that we consume too little—not that we produce too much. And that is a pity, which lies at the root of the agricultural depression." 2117

Bad Storm In England

Seven Persons Dead And Widespread Damage Is Reported

London.—Great Britain's worst September storm in three-quarters of a century, finally blew itself out, leaving seven persons dead, many injured and widespread material damage.

The south coast of England became a graveyard for score of small yachts. Brighton alone reports damage of more than $15,000 and Bournemouth, where not a single beach hut was left standing, a similar sum.

Six thousand men from the post office repair staff worked in relays to unravel a tangle of telephone wires in southern counties, where more than 19,000 lines were out of order. Others struggled to remove fallen trees which blocked many roads.

The British steamer Mary Kingsley succeeded in making port at Falmouth after being washed by mountainous seas which dislodged a 40-ton locomotive from its position on the forward deck.

Three members of the crew, injured while trying to drain a 38-ton barge which had been blown off with water, were removed to a hospital.

Economic Sanctions

Gen. Smuts Does Not Think Covenant Will Lead To War

Stellenbosch, South Africa.—General Smuts, minister of justice in the Union of South Africa, said in a speech here he did not think economic sanctions under article 16 of the League of Nations covenant would lead to war.

If a war broke out in Europe in which Great Britain was involved under the Locarno treaty, "South Africa, Canada and Australia would be out of it, not because we arranged it, but because Britain arranged it under this treaty."

The covenant of the league lays down when war is legal, he continued. "It lays down the same obligations for Britain as for the Dominions, which means Britain cannot take part in war legally without the Dominions being in the same boat. It is not a constitutional question of the empire which brings this about, but a solemn treaty."

The question of South Africa being compelled to participate in a British war did not arise, said General Smuts. "If we had to take part it would be under the covenant."

Makes Formal Denial

Premier Forbids Says New Zealand Will Not Adopt Social Credit

Wellington, N.Z.—Formal denial was issued by Prime Minister G. W. Forbes of reports recently to the effect a race is in progress between the province of Alberta and New Zealand to "see which is first to adopt the Douglas credit system." The Douglas credit theory, said the prime minister, is supported by only a very small number in New Zealand, "whose people are much too sensible to be carried away by such theories—theories that have been repudiated by all economists of repute throughout the world."

BACKS SANCTIONS

When Maxim Litvinov, Soviet Foreign Minister, spoke before the League of Nations Council at Geneva in favor of sanctions in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis he created a sensation. Britain already has intimated her intention to back sanctions.

Churchill Port Busy

Loaded With Wheat Leopold Starts On Second Trip

Churchill, Man.—A full cargo of the West's best wheat, 325,000 bushels, was poured down the chutes into the spacious holds of the ocean steamer Leopold for her second sailing for the 1935 season from Manitoba's northern seaport.

Twenty-four days after sailing from Churchill on her first trip, loaded with wheat for Antwerp, the Leopold docked here Sept. 17th and sailed on the 19th. Antwerp again her destination.

Heavy wheat movements from Churchill are expected shortly as vessels raced towards port to load the grain. The Pengreep, Wentworth, Charles and Alma Dawson were due to arrive before the end of the month. It will be the Wentworth's second trip this year.

The first new-crop grain was delivered to the elevator here Sept. 16th and graded No. 1 Northern.

Wild Life Sanctuary

United States To Set Aside Land In Montana

Washington.—Establishment of a new federal wild life sanctuary in the plains region of northeastern Montana was announced by the biological survey.

The sanctuary, known as the Medicine Lake migratory water fowl refuge, includes 23,700 acres of sub-marginal lands 21 miles south of Plentywood, in Sheridan and Roosevelt counties, Montana.

It is expected to serve as a breeding area and a resting place during migrations.

Ethiopia Takes Precautions

Emperor Orders Storing Of Food Supplies For Use Of Troops

Addis Ababa.—Emperor Haile Selassie ordered precautions taken to prevent Ethiopia from starving in the event of war.

For the first time in the history of the ancient empire the government made preparations to feed troops and civilians under a systematic organization of food supplies. These supplies are claimed already sufficient to maintain the army and the population for a year's campaign.

Hitherto armies in the field lived on towns and villages, devastating crops and leaving upon householders, causing famine. Foreseeing the possibility a conflict might last longer than one year, authorities purchased large supplies of corn, barley and wheat, a native grain.

These supplies are being stored in subterranean depots in all provincial centres. There they are easily accessible to the army and the populace.

The public was ordered to grind cereal and hoard most of it for its own use, selling the residue to the government for a fixed rate.

The Ethiopian soldier is said to be the easiest in the world to feed. He can live and fight on a handful of grain every 24 hours which he roasts on a primitive, convex iron sheet.

Ethiopia is self-contained so far as food is concerned, authorities said, and no Italian blockade could affect it.

Prince Under Treatment

Recurrence Of Old Ear Trouble Not Considered Serious

Vienna.—The Prince of Wales is receiving treatment here for an old ear trouble, with which he was troubled two years ago.

When the trouble recurred, the prince consulted a famous specialist, Professor Heinrich Neumann, who diagnosed it as an inflammation of the middle ear. It is neither dangerous nor painful, but the prince must pay further visits to Professor Neumann and it is hoped the ailment will respond to treatment.

His Royal Highness is holidaying on the continent. He arrived here from Geneva.

Chinese Gang Arrested

Leaders Confess Victims Killed Before Ransom Was Demanded

Tientsin, China.—The arrest of a gang of 20 Chinese on kidnapping charges led to disclosure of cruelly authorities said had seldom been equalled in the annals of crime. Bodies of 20 supposed victims were found beneath floors of houses in various parts of the city.

Leaders of the gang confessed, police said, that they had immediately strangled the victims after they were kidnapped. Ransoms were then demanded but the bodies were never returned.

Reaping Second Crop

High River Farmers Find Grain Revivified After Fall

Lethbridge, Alta.—Some farmers are viewing their neighbors' grain fields with envious eyes. Hailed out, they plowed up their fields. Neighbors did not follow suit, and in the High River district many are reaping a second crop from fields that were battered into the ground with a 100 per cent. loss in July. Yields of from 10 to 15 bushels an acre are expected from the second crop fields.

"Stand together, shoulder to shoulder, man to man, to defend our rights," said Dr. J. C. Meakin, Montreal, president of the Canadian Medical Association, who said his organization represented 28 per cent. of the medical men in Canada.

"We are attacked by a common front of political enmity," Dr. Meakin declared. "We are the last bulwark of society to go down. Now they are trying to pick us off and make us serve their selfish financial ends."

The Canadian Medical Association stands for a royal commission to make a coast to coast investigation of health insurance and to decide upon what basis, if any, it shall be considered."

Dr. J. Tate Mason, Seattle, president of the American Medical Association; Dr. T. C. Routley, secretary of the Canadian association; Dr. H. H. Milburn, president of the British Columbia Medical Association, and others, added their condemnation of health insurance "as at present proposed."

"We need a united front more than ever before," Dr. Mason added. "Our problems in the United States are your problems and you in Canada can depend upon the support of the American association."

Dr. Routley reiterated the demand for a royal commission and said he had received in Toronto assurances from the Life Insurance Officers' Association that it would co-operate with the medical association in appointing experts to make an actuarial survey of Canada as a basis of health insurance rates.

"This isn't your fight alone," he said to the British Columbia doctors. "If this province goes for health insurance the rest of the provinces will do the same."

Dr. G. J. Wherrett, Ottawa, secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, in a brief address, said the death rate from tuberculosis in Canada had been reduced by two-thirds in the past quarter century.

Dangerous Situation In Mediterranean As Ships Are Mobilized

London.—A "powder keg" situation in the Mediterranean, becoming rapidly more dangerous because of Italian and British naval developments, was reported by foreign military observers.

There is purpose, they declared, behind the mobilization of the best ships, aeroplanes and troops of both countries within the Mediterranean and at its entrances.

Reuters News Agency reported an official defence proclamation at Gibraltar advised the public to lay in a supply of candles because, "in the event of certain emergencies it may prove necessary to extinguish all lights throughout Gibraltar."

The basis was being laid in the Mediterranean Sea for the most terrible naval warfare in world history. From the coast of southern England to the first-fortified coast of China, British warships, from tiny mine-laying trawlers to unsinkable floating fortresses, steamed to the ancient ocean which has been a theatre of naval warfare since the Achæans besieged Troy.

The Italian navy is massed on either side of the long peninsula that lies between the Tyrrhenian and Adriatic seas and stretches down toward Africa.

On the African and European coasts, soldiers, aeroplanes, heavy artillery are taking their position.

Because the Mediterranean is narrow and bounded by three continents, any big scale warfare would involve engines of destruction which never have been combined. Thick fleets of aeroplanes, big guns of coastal artillery, cruisers that can move at more than 40 miles an hour, anti-aircraft guns whose potency never has been tested, all would be used.

The British fleet, latest reports placed at three battleships, two battle cruisers, three aircraft carriers, nine cruisers, six submarines, nearly 40 destroyers and a host of auxiliary units, is in position at Alexandria, near the entrance to the Suez canal, off Port Said—the entrance to the Mediterranean.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

PREMIER BENNETT in Victoria Park pavilion, Calgary, spoke to his constituents as a citizen of Calgary. Having climbed the long ladder of political fortune or misfortune, he reminded his audience that 37 years ago they first sent him to the House of Commons, and though he had realized his ambition of becoming prime minister, he felt it would be just as great an honor and privilege to be the representative of Calgary West after the forthcoming election.

BENNETT OF CALGARY is as widely known as "Bennett of Ottawa." His last appearance in this district was prior to the election of 1930. He spoke at Fernie, and half an hour after the meeting closed, some time before midnight, he was on his way to Calgary in a hired taxi, riding throughout the night in order to keep an appointment next morning.

OF PRODIGIOUS ENERGY, he has contributed something worthwhile out of his experience and knowledge to Canada. His impulses in relation to high tariffs have been in behalf of the working men and women, for he sincerely believes that heavy importations of foreign goods help to keep Canadian people out of work. Much has been said of his intention to blast his way into the markets of the world, yet the records shows that during years of depression of world-wide effect, Canada stepped up from tenth to fifth place among the exporting countries of the world.

GEORGE G. COOTE, C. C. F. candidate for Macleod, will address electors of the Pass towns in Coleman tomorrow (Friday) evening. His address will be of interest, particularly in regard to his attitude to Social Credit. It is reported he was asked if he would run as a 100 per cent S.C. candidate. He remained true to his principles as a C. C. F. candidate, which party has pioneered in the Federal house for the farmers and workers long before Social Credit was talked of in Alberta, and whose policy if carried into effect would be of far greater permanent benefit than proposed dividends of the S. C. party. It will probably be the only meeting here to be addressed by Mr. Coote, as his time will be fully occupied with meetings in the rural areas up till election day.

PREMIER ABERHART in his Sunday broadcast warned his supporters to beware of agitation by those clamoring for immediate payment of the $25 monthly dividend. During his election campaign he repeatedly stated it would take at least eighteen months to put his proposals into effect, and the majority of people are fair enough to give him a reasonable length of time. He also stated his remarks in the east had been greatly exaggerated concerning conditions in Alberta. He met with a favorable reception and allayed fears that Alberta would repudiate its indebtedness and confiscate wealth.

THE ALBERTA PREMIER, having received a courteous reception by Mr. Bennett, expressed the hope Social Crediters would not oppose him in West Calgary. Already the glorified crusade is developing into just another political party. The Aberhartists, anxious to defeat Prime Minister Bennett against their leader's wishes, nominated a candidate. Upstart leaders are challenging Mr. Aberhart's authority, and the new Moses is beginning to experience the irritation of unruly disciples. The Social Crediters in Alberta, like the Communists, believe not in co-operation with any other party or clique. Intoxicated with their success in Alberta, they are seeking fresh fields to conquer, which is legitimate from a political warfare standpoint. But do not disguise it as an altruistic crusade. Its politics!

They apparently ignore the fact that it was only Aberhart's leadership and his peculiar type of political strategy which carried them to success.

"I FORGOT TO REGISTER" is frequently heard on municipal election day. Every year the town advertises the rules governing the registration of voters, and attention is again called to the advertisement in this issue. In consequence of legislation passed at the last session of the legislature, based on a motion introduced by G. E. Cruickshank, former member for Rocky Mountain, voters in the school district must also possess naturalization papers, which is a mighty good ruling.

3,000 PEOPLE is not a big trading population. Coleman has no rural population. But it has 65 business establishments of various kinds, including professional offices, or one for every 47 of the population. Just how this ratio compares with other bustling cities we have not discovered, but some of the 65 listed are so little known they hardly count. It is the laggards who have a tendency to clog the wheels of progress. This is evidenced to a large extent by the gloom which envelops some places after darkness falls. Cheap light fails to bring a response for increased illumination of many places on Main street.

BLAIRMORE, ALBERTA

Local News

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald motored to Calgary on Sunday to visit their daughter, Penelope, who is a nurse-in-training at the Holy Cross hospital.

Social Creditors last week at Drumheller celebrated their first anniversary with a chicken dinner in their club rooms, at which local leaders of the movement were present.

Mrs. Alex Wilson, sr., of Calgary, provincial president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, was here last Thursday and held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold Turner.

Rev. A. E. Lark of Blairmore United church has left for Ontario to represent the United church of Canada in a speaking tour. During his absence his pulpit will be taken by visiting clergy and J. Shevels and W. Dutton.

He who is sloppy and careless in attending to his duties cannot blame anyone but himself if an other succeeds him. A man may be excused for making an error, but if he repeats it, he may suffer the consequences.

It is probable that Rev. C. Neighbor, evangelist of the Prophetic Bible Institute, will hold campaign meetings in the Pass towns. He is an ally of Premier Aberhart in his Social Credit campaign, and comes from the Southern States.

H. H. McKinnon, who organized classes in the Pass towns for Canadian Commercial College, alleged to have offices in Calgary, was committed for trial at Macleod for having received money from students and not turning it in to his employers.

A 23-year-old supporter of Premier Aberhart wrote asking him in return for his support, would he have a beer parlor opened in his town, and give him the job as bar tender. Possibly there will be many more looking for jobs.

Following R. B. Bennett's address in Calgary last Thursday, the meeting closed without any bouquets being handed out. Evidently people came to listen to Bennett and no other, for immediately he had finished speaking, the chairman announced the national anthem would be sung.

Mrs. Alan Brown and Mrs. W. Cousins, who returned last week from a visit to Wales, on the "Duchess of Bedford," ran into violent weather on the trip, the ship being caught in the tail end of the storm which wrought havoc at Miami, Florida. Several were injured by the violent buffeting the ship received from the mountainous waves, four days of very rough weather being experienced.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

For the first time in the history of the Bombay high court, a microphone and amplifier has been put in use in one of the chambers.

Field Marshal Lord Allenby, who celebrated his 74th birthday on St. George's Day, April 23, has an avary stocked with many varieties of foreign finches.

A woman who cashed a cheque in an Edmonton bank wasn't taking any chances. The cheque read: "Pay to Mrs. —, 15 'Canadian dollars'." She got them.

Father John Louis Stacey, 38, died at the wheel of his car in Edmonton as he drove to a city hospital to get treatment for a heart ailment. The car crashed into another parked machine.

Indicative of the rapid mechanization of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, not one saddle horse is stable in the force's barracks at Macleod, Alta. All animals formerly kept at southern Alberta detachments have been disposed of.

A few weeks ago Joseph Eckert, 15, collided with a buggy while riding his bicycle in Stratford, Ont. The shaft of the buggy went clear through the boy's body, an inch below the heart. Now he is up and around again almost as well as ever.

Two men were sentenced to five years' imprisonment for firing shots at a procession of Orangemen on the streets of Belfast, July 12. They were Thomas Connolly and Joseph McDonald. Several persons were killed and wounded in the July riots.

Vancouver is returning to a normal financial position "better than any other city in Canada," said C. E. Tisdal, chairman of the civic finance committee, told the Retail Credit Grantors' Association in session in that city.

Will Not Accept Legacy

English Woman Dreads Curse Laid On Ancestor

Because she dreads an Indian curse laid on one of her ancestors who, she believes, despoiled a temple, Mrs. J. Schofield, of Henshall, near Liverpool, England, refuses to touch a legacy left by her mother.

Instead she will devote all the money to a religious cause, hoping that in this way the power of the curse will be broken.

Said Mrs. Schofield: "We need the money badly, my husband and I, but I am afraid to touch it. It comes indirectly from my ancestor's estate. My great-uncle won a law suit against an Indian maharajah on December 18, 1844. It gave him jurisdiction over certain land on which was a temple dedicated to a vestal goddess.

"Two days later he was found in the temple, stabbed to the heart with a jewelled dagger. A piece of parchment with the curse written on it lay on the body.

"Note the two dates—Dec. 13 and Dec. 15. My father died on the 13th of a month; my mother on the 15th, in tragic circumstances. Other members of the family have died tragically on those two dates.

"The curse particularly affected the women of the family. That is what decided me."

Deer Halts Ocean Liner

Navigation Stood Still Until Swimming Animal Was Rescued

A young buck deer went for a swim along the Vancouver waterfront and the episode proved so momentous it halted an ocean liner, brought out a police cruiser and even impeded the British navy.

A longshoreman waiting to work the Empress of Japan saw the deer swimming in the harbor and noticed the animal was tiring. His shouts brought a police launch to the scene and excitement ranged along the half-mile of the waterfront.

H.M.S. Danae, leaving for Victoria, sounded its siren, the S.S. Princess Marguerite, a ferry boat, a cargo ship and a number of smaller craft halted in their courses as the police boat performed a rescue. Slipping a noose over the head of the weary animal, it was hauled aboard the launch. The buck was later released on the north shore and navigation continued.

Picture Well Preserved

A picture of King Edward VII, chiseled in the coal wall of the Marsh Mine more than 25 years ago by Engineer-driver John Campbell of Westville, Nova Scotia, was found to be in a remarkably good state of preservation when the mine was being dewatered. The Greenwood Coal Company was having the colliery dewatered to work in new coal areas.

Cane Sugar Growers Worried

Afraid Beet Cultivation in United Kingdom Will Run Industry With the United Kingdom Government subsidizing beet sugar at home, the British West Indies and British Guiana are wondering what is to become of their cane sugar industries—already depressed by low prices.

Barbados, whose only possible crop for commercial purposes is cane, is particularly anxious to ascertain how far the Imperial Government intends to go with the cultivation of beets for sugar.

This island of 166,270 acres has 100,000 acres under cultivation, and of a population of 180,000 about 120,000 colored people look to the sugar cane plantations for employment.

Nearly all the planters are now in debt to the banks and are growing cane only in the hope of better times, and in order to support the enormous working population.

Should they be obliged to abandon sugar, the island would be penniless, it is said. There would be no question of dole, because all the colony's taxes come from the planters, and with their ruin the chief source of revenue would be shut off.

Some of the other islands with different vegetation have a better outlook. Grenada, for example, is making up for sugar losses by devoting much land to cultivation of other crops, and has been successful this year with bananas grown under a supply contract for a Canadian company.

Coached Popular Actor

Edmonton Man Taught Chevalier To Speak English

The man who taught Maurice Chevalier to speak English in a German prison camp at Alten Grabow, Germany, during the war lives in Edmonton to-day. William King, who enlisted from Edmonton at the first call of the war and spent his 17th birthday in the front line at Ypres salient, became a pal of the French movie picture singer when the electricity charged barbed wire of the prison camp.

Captured during the first gas attack, King spent some time in a German hospital camp and then was placed in Alten Grabow camp. There he met the handsome young Frenchman, Chevalier, and for nearly a year was his constant companion.

AT HISTORIC CAIRN

Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is shown here with little Joyce Austin, daughter of W. T. Austin, section foreman at Craigellachie, B.C., following Sir Edward's recent visit to the Craigellachie cairn which marks the spot where Lord Strathcona on November 7, 1885, drove the last spike completing the Canadian Pacific Railway from ocean to ocean. On behalf of Craigellachie's handful of citizens Miss Austin presented the C.P.R. president with a bouquet of home grown flowers, a tribute which Sir Edward acknowledged with hearty thanks. Sir Edward visited the memorial cairn in the 50th anniversary year of C.P.R. history as it will be 50 years on November 7 since Lord Strathcona drove the momentous spike.

Value Of Grain Crop

Western Crop Estimated Value Placed At $241,381,000

Western Canada's grain this year will be worth more than at any time since 1931, according to an estimate by the Winnipeg Free Press.

Based on present prices, says the estimate, the total 1935 grain crop will bring $241,381,000. The paper, using its own 274,764,000-bushel estimate, says wheat will be worth $156,615,000 at the Fort William figure of 74 cents a bushel (price for average minimum grade) less 17 cents average haul.

Thus, says the paper, the total 1935 crop is $22,186,000 more valuable than the 1931 crop, $159,148,000; $22,857,000 more valuable than 1932, $218,524,000; $71,338,000 more valuable than 1933, $170,043,000; $13,326,000 more valuable than 1934, $227,055,000.

Jasper-Edmonton Highway

Believe Arrangements Made To Ensure Construction

Climaxed a 15-year fight, construction of a fully-standard, all-weather highway from Edmonton to Jasper appears assured at last, according to an announcement by acting Premier Manning for taking over the abandoned railway grade section of the highway had been completed and sufficient funds secured to guarantee the necessary construction, which will consist mainly of widening the grade.

Approximately 11,900,000 yards are spoken annually by the average man.

In The Olden Days

Women Raced Their Own Yachts When Victoria Was Queen

Recent yachting activities reminds a writer in Overseas that before bicycling bloomers loomed on the horizon of emancipated womanhood the fair sex was already challenging the supremacy of man in the sailing competitions in British waters.

Even as far back as the reign of Queen Victoria there were at least six women racing their own yachts in the Solent, and in 1899 the first of the "ladies' races", which are now so popular a feature of every yacht club regatta, was sailed.

In 1890, however, the activities of these "Solent sailresses", as they were called, received something of a set-back, for although races were especially provided in the program of a certain club, some owners objected to this form of sport and for several years the Solent yachtswomen were kept somewhere in the background.

Early in the present century this objection seems to have died down, and women were once more owning and sailing their own metre boats, not only in their own races, but in competition with what was then known as "the sterner sex."

They did not find it necessary to don shorts or trousers, these yachtswomen of the days when the King was Prince of Wales, but put valiantly to sea in long skirts and big hats, tied under the chin with motor-velvet. These would be considered impracticable and even dangerous by the sailresses of 1895.

As a general rule, large birds live longer than small ones.

JOHN

(The Minister and His People)

Golden text: Beloved, imitate not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God: he that doeth evil hath not seen God. III. John 11.

Lesson: III. John.

Devotional Reading: I. John 4:7-21.

Explanations And Comments

Salutation, verse 1. John, the writer of this epistle, calls himself "the elder," a title which may have been an official one, indicating dignity and authority, or it may be a reference to his age. Gaius was a common name among the Romans. Gaius the beloved, to whom John writes this personal letter, may have been an elder or a pastor. "Whom I love in truth," writes John. The truth, as it is used in this epistle, has almost a technical meaning, implying not only the eternal principle, but also the organization which embodies it—the Church (Dummelow).

Commendations, verses 2-3. John wishes that the well-being and health of Gaius may correspond to his spiritual well-being. He rejoiced greatly when messengers came to him from the church to which Gaius belonged and brought word that Gaius was conducting himself worthily. I was overjoyed when some brothers arrived and testified to the truth of your life, as indeed you do barretes would not accept supposition. "The itinerant brethren were always at work, going out from Ephesus on their missions and returning with their reports" (David Smith). No greater joy could come to him, John declared, than to learn that his children were walking in the truth.

Beloved, wrote John, that is a fine word you do when you said (set for) love, with money, food, lodging, etc.—brethren and strangers; they have testified in love before the church. Public inn had little to commend them, moreover, travelling Christians were usually poor, and the giving of hospitality to them was an important part of the work in the early church. Pray speed them on their journey worthy of God; they have started out for his sake and declined to take anything from pagans; hence we are bound to support such men, to prove ourselves allies of the Truth (Moffatt's translation). The lead the true life (Moffatt's translation) from non-Christians among whom they labored lest their mission work be thought a mercenary one.

These Frogs Are Different

Speeles Shown In New York Ship Tadpole Stage

Three young frogs no larger than houseflies, hatched in the biology lab at the American Museum of Natural History, New York, were on exhibition along with several hundred other amphibians, reptiles and fish at the annual show of the Aquarium Society.

Visitors rubbed their eyes when the three frogs, known scientifically as eleutherodactylus johnsoni, hopped onto a dime, leaving room for six or eight more.

Dr. G. Kingsley Noble, curator of the museum's department of experimental biology, explained smallness was not their only unusual characteristic. They were one of the few species of frogs, he said, which had no tadpole stage, the young being ready for business as soon as they popped out of the egg.

It developed some time back in dim prehistory had a tadpole stage but eventually found themselves in a pretty pickle with hardly enough water handy for a tadpole to swim in. Apparently resourceful amphibians, they just eliminated the tadpole stage and started laying their eggs on land. Dr. Noble said.

The maximum height reached was about ten and a half miles.

New Place To Go

Stratosphere May Be Popular Honey-moon Resort Some Day

"It is almost safe to prophesy that our children will spend their honeymoons in the stratosphere or their summer holidays in the ozoneosphere." This was declared by Colonel E. B. Mackintosh, director of the South Kensington (England) Science Museum while receiving the grandeur of the balloon in which Professor Piccard made his second historic ascent into the stratosphere. The balloon, which has been presented to the museum, left Dübendorf Aerodrome, near Zurich, and after a flight of 22 hours landed on Lake Garda. The maximum height reached was about ten and a half miles.

Africa's Oldest Empire

History Of Abyssinia Ranges Over Thousands Of Years

Harold J. Shepherson, F.R.G.S., wrote the following article for the Edinburgh Scotsman:

Whatever may be the fate of Abyssinia as a result of the present dispute between this age-old African Empire and Italy, some reference to this remarkable land, her history, the strange mentality of her people, and their quaint customs and ways may prove of timely interest.

Her history is an ancient story of fact, legend, and tradition, ranging over thousands of years. On one occasion her present ruler, Emperor Haile Selassie, prepared for a friend or mine a list of her rulers. It contained the names of 312 sovereigns and extended back over 6,300 years, to 4,530 B.C., or the 97th year of the creation of the world, according to Abyssinian computation. Included in this list were Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, from whose son, Menelik, the ruling house claim direct descent, which would give them a pedigree of the somewhat unusual length of 3,000 years.

Despite her long history Abyssinia, shut off from the rest of the world by towering mountains and barren deserts, has remained virtually untouched by the world forgetting, by the world forgot—her people have maintained an inviolability almost Tibetan in its character. As a result the mentality of her people and the condition of most of the country have remained virtually unchanged during the past few centuries. They live much as they did two thousand years ago.

True, Addis Ababa, the capital is now connected with the outside world by a railway—a single line which runs between it and Djibouti, the port of the Red Sea. So much for the only means of communication is a country about twice the size of Germany, or some 350,000 square miles in extent. The trains only run by day, out of respect to the proclivities of the Danakil tribes, who consider the day and night for sheep and the copper telegraph wires for bangles. In the wet season, moreover, travellers often spend three or four days covering the 500 miles between Djibouti and the capital owing to the permanent way being washed out by heavy rains.

The people still wear the old dress which seems to have been theirs since time immemorial. This consists of a cotton shirt, trousers, and the chamma, the latter being a kind of cotton scarf worn like a toga during the day and as a wrap at night covering. The costume is the same for men and women and for all classes. The method of draping the chamma is indicative of the attitude of the wearer towards the person in whose presence he may be. Thus to draw it across the chest would imply contempt, whilst to drop it off the shoulders and gather it round the waist is the highest form of respect.

Impromptu courts of law, where any passer-by may be called upon to act as a judge, are still held at every street corner, and any trivial change is settled with much inviolated order and an appalling waste of time. Rough-and-ready justice, according to the Mosaic code, holds the field for more serious crimes. Until recently it was quite a common sight to see half a dozen men swinging in the market square from improvised gallows or trees. Now murderers are executed in a little hut in the town, wherein they are tied to a post, rides are trained on them through tubes in the wall, and the triggers are pulled by the relatives of the murdered man.

Very few Abyssinians outside the priesthood and the officials of Addis Ababa are able to read or write. The people as a whole are quite illiterate, and letters are not signed but sealed. The Emperor alone is entitled to place his seal at the top of his letters; everyone else's appears below the writing. It is a graceful script and a picturesque language; but, as there are 231 letters in the alphabet, besides about twenty compounds of these, Amharic is not exactly a subject that can be acquired in a week-end.

Soft, cuddly animal toys are the favorites of nursery-age youngsters and wise is the mother who realizes how easily and cheaply such toys can be made. No need to buy new material for these; the left-over scraps of calico, chintz or other novelty cottons are adequate and so colorful. With only two simple pieces required for each toy, not counting the ears and elephant's blanket which are separate, the stitching and stuffing are completed in no time at all. Then watch the merment when you bring out long-eared Peter Rabbit, the terrier that's smart as a whip, and the elephant "just like we saw at the circus!"

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a girl, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home where what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy retires out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in a neighboring town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nancy is amazed to see that Cousin Columbine has moved into the big residence all lit up, and asks Matthew if he knows why. He says: "Let's go in and see." Then Nancy learns that she is having her debut, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam paid a sign for the library, and the Adams boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adam, and Nancy go to the prairie home of Matthew's uncle for the ride, and then Nancy and Jack leave for home, they are caught in a blizzard.

New Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XVII

The ride to Prairie Ranch had been a jolly one, and a new experience to the young Nelsons. "Uncle Tom and Aunt Emily" welcomed them warmly, and even suggested that they stay a day or two, so Mark would be able to accompany them home; but Jack demurred.

"With both Matt and Mark away, Mr. Adam needs me," he explained, "and what's more, I think we'd better start right back if we're to go alone. Soon as Mark's better we'll be glad of the chance to come and get him; but really, I'd feel easier to go back to-day."

"He's right, Matthew," commended Uncle Tom. "It's not quite fair for me to steal two of your father's sons and his 'hired man' as well! And as Jack says, it's better for them to start soon and take their time. Run up and say a word to Mark, you two."

while Aunt Em gets you a good lunch. You won't mind eating early after the long ride."

"I never saw my sister refuse food, early or late, ride or no ride," grinned Jack as they went upstairs.

They were away by noon, regretful not to stay longer with this hospitable family, but glad that they would return as soon.

"These plains are such surprising things," said Nancy, when Prairie Ranch and its big cottonwoods were miles behind them. "From a distance they look flat as a huge billiard table. Who would believe that there are mesas and hills out here?"

"I like the prairies better from a distance," confessed her brother. "They're so desolate and lonely when you're on 'em, Sis. Makes you feel no bigger than a mosquito, and about as important!" It's great to come out here and see them; but give me the mountains as a steady diet. I—"

The boy paused, brushing one hand against his cheek.

"Queer, but I'd swear a snowflake must be! Why, there's another! Strange to see snow drift down this way while the sun's still shining."

"I've seen that happen several times this winter, but it never amounts to very much," Nancy peered curiously at the heavens. "Just see that cloud, Jack! How fast it's moving. I bet that's where your snowflake came from."

A worried wrinkled appeared between Jack's eyes.

"Maybe Cousin Columbine was right, and it's time for a storm."

"Lost on the prairie in a blizzard on the twenty-sixth of March! It would be some story to tell the folks back home!"

Jack said, his eyes following the cloud. "Not tempt Providence, Sis. That cloud is turning inky, and blizzards on these plains are something awful, they come so suddenly. Mr. Adam told me about a time."

A gust of wind was on them before Jack finished speaking. Big balls of tumbling snow whirled across the prairie, and clouds of dust obliterated the road.

"Perhaps we'd better turn and go back," suggested Nancy, ducking her head against the particles of dust. "Cousin Columbine insisted we mustn't start in any sort of storm, you know, and—"

"—and it's really snowing! It's beginning to snow hard!"

The boy leaned forward, scanning a sky that grew darker with incredible rapidity.

"How far back did we pass that schoolhouse?" His voice, Nancy noticed, was tense, unnatural. "I don't think it's turning inky, and blizzards on these plains are something awful, they come so suddenly. Mr. Adam told me about a time."

"I say we keep right on to the first ranch. That school was six or eight miles back; and when we passed I noticed particularly that the bus had left. Perhaps they closed at noon to-day."

A stinging flurry of snow was on them now, cutting across their faces like a whip. For a moment it took Jack's breath away, then he replied: "I guess you're right. There was a ranch somewhere along here. I remember seeing the gate and mail box. Help me into this jacket, will you? I don't want to stop the car. Goah! Nancy, we've headed straight into the storm."

"I suggested to get his arm into a sleeve," don't bother about the other. Get into your own coat quick—or wrap it round you. Look at this snow! The windshield's covered already. I'll have to get out and wipe it off."

"Is there any side curtains in this old car?" cried Nancy as they started on after a short delay. Jack shook his head as he bent tensely above the wheel.

"Darned if I know; and you couldn't put 'em on in this wind anyway. Keep your eyes peeled for that mail box, Nancy. We mustn't miss it. We—we can't miss it. Do you understand?"

Nancy understood only too well. There, followed a mile or so when neither spoke. Twice Jack got out to wipe the glass, while his sister, staring into the wind-swept snow, fought terror. Snow was descending fast and furiously now. Indeed, as they kept on doggedly it seemed incredible that this was the same road they had traversed so short a time before with friendly sunlight dappling the plains on every side. It might, thought Nancy, have been snowing here for hours and hours. Could it be possible that they were out of the road? Straining her eyes into the drifting white, watching in desperation for the way-side mail box, visions of frozen cattle rose up before her, and the girls heart thudded.

At last Jack said, not looking at his sister: "We've missed that ranch, Nancy. It can't have been as far as this. What say we turn back now and try to reach the schoolhouse? The wind would be behind us any way; and as it is I can't see for four or five miles."

The words were silenced by a cry from Nancy, a cry of warning that came too late. Jack jammed on the brakes so suddenly that his sister was thrown forward against the windshield just as the car collided with the engine of a big school bus, which stood, its back wheels resting in a snow-filled gully as it extended crazily across the road.

CHAPTER XVIII

As Nancy righted herself again, her eyes met Jack's, a glance of stark despair passing between them. "I'm afraid that crash has finished this old car," he told her; then added: "Why, Nancy, I think that bus is full of children!"

"Oh, there!" came a voice almost at his elbow. "Had a smash up, didn't you? Did you meet Clem?"

Jack turned to see a boy of perhaps eleven, standing amid the swirling snow.

"Skip back into that bus, kid," he said, "we're coming too."

He was already out, stretching a helping hand to Nancy, and together they fought their way to the door of the stalled bus, the youngster calling over his shoulder: "Watch where you go there! Don't step into that deep rut, Miss—you gotta jump it!"

Then as the door opened to admit them and Nancy, exhausted, came into the nearest seat, he continued with a captivated grin: "We got company, kids. These folks is changing cars at this station. Say," (turning to Jack), "did Clem Johnson send 'Hi, there!' came a voice almost at his elbow. "Had a smash up, didn't you? Did you meet Clem?"

Jack shook his head, and glancing about the bus, inquired, "Is he your driver?"

"Just for to-day. Our regular driver's sick," explained the boy, "came down with an awful pain when he was sweeping out the bus this morning, and his wife got Clem to drive us. Teacher closed school early because there's some sort of convention in Denver to-morrow, and she wanted to take a train this afternoon. The storm came awful sudden, after we left; and when we got this far Clem said we'd better get back to Bartlett's ranch fast as we could. 'Tisn't more'n a few miles east of us; but when he tried to turn, the wheels went into that gully and something broke. Clem worked for a long time and couldn't fix it."

"So he went for help?"

"That's it. He thought he'd get there easy; but the wind got something fierce after he left. We told him not to go, but he said we'd freeze to death out here and 'twas up to him to get us somewhere safe. He's been gone a terrible long time though. Say, what's your name?"

"Jack Nelson; and his wife got Clem to drive us. Teacher closed school early because there's some sort of convention in Denver to-morrow, and she wanted to take a train this afternoon. The storm came awful sudden, after we left; and when we got this far Clem said we'd better get back to Bartlett's ranch fast as we could. 'Tisn't more'n a few miles east of us; but when he tried to turn, the wheels went into that gully and something broke. Clem worked for a long time and couldn't fix it."

"Tom Osgood. I'm the oldest fellow here; but two of the girls are older'n me. What do you s'pose became of Clem? He ought to be here."

At the front of the bus two children began to cry; and looking about at all those helpless youngsters, Nancy forgot herself. There must be fifteen of them; and two lovely little girls, obviously twins of seven or eight, wore only sweaters over summer dresses. How cold they must be!

"Look here," she said, rising to speak quietly, "these poor kiddies are getting frightened. We must divert them. Jack—play games of some sort—keep them moving as much as possible in this crowded place. Why, I'm cold already even with this coat, and not one of those children is dressed as warmly! Let's start stamping on our feet to get our sweaters on as I put my sweater on one of those little girls."

This worked for a time, and the smallest children, not realizing their plight, laughed with delight at the games Nancy invented. The older ones, however, grew noticeably quiet as time passed, trying to peer out of the snow-covered windows, and speaking together in low voices.

At last Jack and Tom Osgood started some wrestling matches at the rear of the bus; while the older girls roused themselves in an effort to keep the others occupied. They danced, jumped up and down, and did some gymnastics; but despite this exercise they were growing colder every minute, and when during some roughhouse, a small boy's elbow went through a pane of glass, a cry of dismay arose from one and all.

It was then that Tom Osgood had an inspiration. Stored under the back seat and carried for just such emergencies, were canned food and a small, portable stove.

"I'll say we were pretty dumb not to think of 'em before," he observed disgustedly, "but we've never had a chance to use 'em, and I guess every one forgot." He had been rummaging about on his hands and knees, and now stood up, a bewildered expression on his manly little face. "Why they're not here! Not anywhere! We've always carried 'em, and we're right here, say! I bet I know what happened. Jose took 'em out when he cleaned the bus this morning, and forgot to put 'em back when he had that pain. He always sets 'em in the harness closet out of the dust; and maybe Clem s'posed they were right here, or 'praps he didn't know 'em, but I bet to know. Gee! I'm hungry, and some of 'em that canned soup would have tasted good."

There followed another fruitless search, the children watching with strained, unchildlike faces.

"Don't cry, kiddie," said Jack, as he and extra blankets too, frightened small girl burst into tears. "I'm going to make a stove out of this milk can. We'll soon be opening windows to cool off!"

Nancy forced a smile at her brother's attempt at cheer, and lifting the crying child onto her lap, wrapped her coat about the small, cold legs. The bus was shaking with each gust of wind, and though every inch was thick with frost, she knew the storm had increased in fury.

One Business Booming

Firm In England Swamped With Orders For Jew's Harps

"Industrial Britain" informs us that Birmingham, the only city in the world where Jews harps are manufactured, is experiencing such a boom in this respect that prospective players all over the world, especially in America, are obliged to await delivery. The delay is due to a lack of skilled tongue setters, who have to be trained for several years before they are proficient. The setters are responsible for the adjustment of the metal strip that vibrates to produce the sound, and if this strip is the merest fraction of an inch out of adjustment the tone of the harp is ruined. One firm in Birmingham is producing 100,000 harps a week, and has enough orders to keep the factory busy for three months. The head of this firm has just returned from a business trip in the United States, where Jew's harp bands are popular, with one order for nearly 150,000 instruments. —Brookville Recorder and Times.

Would Join British Empire

You have heard of districts in Europe inhabited by Germans who want to join Germany. There is also one country in Europe where people want to join Britain, though they are not British. In five years Iceland will reconsider her present association with Denmark. A large and influential element wants to seek admittance to the British Empire. It will not happen, of course. But how significant that it should be suggested. —London Sunday Express.

A Rare Instrument

Mathematical Rod Invented In The Year 1617

One sees queer things in the advertisement columns of the London newspapers as being for sale. Some of these are simple, some are mystifying. In the latter category most people placed an item which appeared the other day. The advertiser announced that he wanted to sell a set of "Napier's Bones."

No doubt to the mind's eye of the majority of folk who read it there appeared a vision of a wired skeleton and medical textbooks show. Or the remains of some famous Napier or other which had been preserved something like those of Jeremy Bentham, now in a great London hospital. But only the mathematicians (and not all of them) might be expected to know anything of Napier and his bones.

The bones are a set of small rods inscribed with figures. By means of these things multiplication, division and all sorts of mathematical gymnastics may be performed by the initiate. The method of using them was invented, and explained in a treatise, by John Napier, of Edinburgh, in the year 1617, and they came to be known as "Napier's Bones."

Plan To Link Up Two Provinces And Two States

A proposal to link sections of two provinces and two states into an organization publicizing tourist attractions of the areas was made by G. F. C. Foster, secretary of the Winnipeg Tourist and Convention Bureau. Following Pousette's suggestions before a meeting of civic envoys at Detroit Lakes, Minn., a committee was appointed to investigate the plan, "would organize northwestern Ontario, Manitoba, eastern North Dakota and northern Minnesota."

The territory would be designated as the "circle tour" and would extend from Winnipeg to Kenora, Ont., to Fort Frances, Ont., through northwestern Minnesota to Detroit Lakes, Alexandria, the Twin Cities, Fargo, N.D., and then north to Grand Forks, Crookston, and back to Winnipeg.

Some Queer Laws

New York's statute books contain many don'ts. Among these is the prohibiting riding a bicycle with hands off the handlebars, flying kites in city streets, and firing a cannon in the city except with the mayor's permission, the cannon to be no larger than a four-pounder.

Formosa's recent earthquake was the most disastrous since the 'quake of 1906 which cost nearly 1,500 lives.

Little Helps For This Week

And when ye stand praying, forgive if ye have aught against any, that your Father which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses. But if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father which is in heaven forgive your trespasses. Mark 11:25-26.

"Tis not enough to mourn your sins,
"Tis but a step to heaven;
When you are kind to others—
then
You know yourself forgiven.

There is nothing to do with your fellow men but to love them, to contemplate their virtues with admiration, their faults with pity and forbearance, and their injuries with forgiveness. To hate your adversary will not help you; nothing within the compass of the universe will help you, but to love him. How many a solitary place would be made glad if love were there, how many a dark dwelling would be full of light.

Ontario Boys Suggested Relief Board Might Purchase Rugby Balls

The rugby season is with us. In a recent week some boys at an Ontario high school wanted to practise the great autumn sport. Last year's rugby balls had disappeared. The school board had decided to stretch and not purchase any new ones out of public funds. Some new ones were being provided out of the students' own athletic funds but they were not available.

A group of boys approached the athletic teacher to ask if a ball or two might not be secured from relief funds.

The rest of this column could doubtless be filled amplifying this little sidelight on a young Canadian viewpoint about the Dominion's biggest single business. Suffice to reflect how deeply its roots are sinking, when fifteen-year-old Canadian lads think relief rolls are synonymous with rugby balls.—Financial Post.

Record For Land Plane Of 347 Miles Per Hour

W. H. Hittman, of the National Aeronautics Association, announced that the Federation of Aeronautics Internationale in Paris, will be asked to credit Howard Hughes, wealthy film producer, with a world speed record for land planes of 347 miles an hour.

This speed was attained by Hughes in a series of tests near Santa Ana, Calif., in his 14-cylinder, 1,000-horsepower monoplane.

The present record of 314.31 miles an hour was set by Raymond Delmotte, of France, in 1924.

Shone Wins McGillivray Cup

Dick Shone won the club tennis championship on Sunday when he beat the holder and defending champion, Chick Roughhead, in three straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3. Shone has shown consistently good form all season, starring in the provincial tournament in Calgary during the summer. He had a little difficulty in the second set, managing to win out after Roughhead had fought back to tie the score at 5-5. Shone by his win will be recognized as ranking number two in the club, having lost to Balloch in Calgary. The latter is recognized as number one. With his defeat Roughhead will be ranked number three.

"Duke" Scoderella, new recruit to the local hockey team and former goalie of Bellevue Bulldogs, will report at Lester Patrick's training camp at Winnipeg on Oct. 6. Scoderella will be given the chance of showing his hockey ability against the cream of Canada's younger hockey players and if successful will be taken in charge by Patrick and farmed out to some minor league team for seasoning before stepping up into the big time. Red Dutton of the New York Americans has taken an option on Bill Wright of the Drumheller Miners. Wright will be remembered by local fans as one of the Drumheller players who opposed the locals at the arena here last season.
